

Q4 2024 in Review

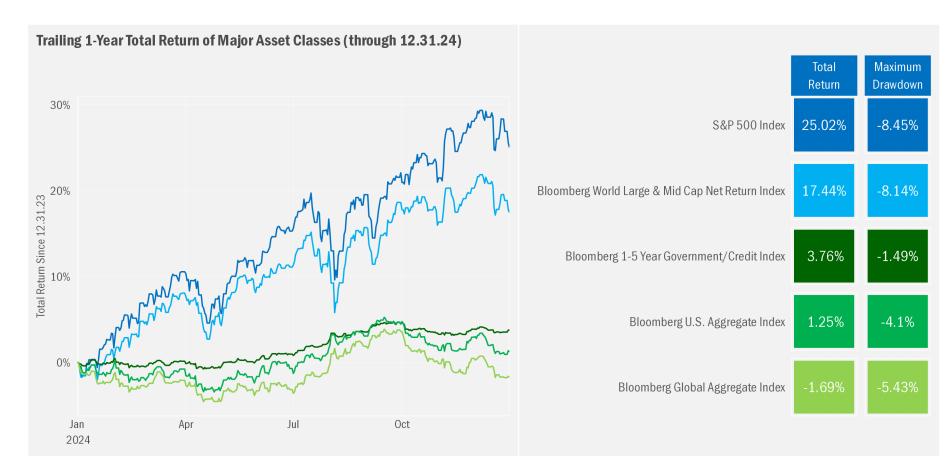

Mark Mowrey, CFA

Chief Investment Officer

Global Market Overview

As global bond markets remained challenged in 2024, stocks roared higher, with growth stocks in the U.S. finding particular strength as the year wore on

Past performance is not indicative of future results. Investing in securities involves risk, including risk of losing some or all the invested capital. There is no guarantee that any investment or investment strategy will achieve its objective. Indexes are unmanaged. One cannot directly invest in an index. Index performance reflects the reinvestment of dividends but does not reflect the expenses associated with the management of an actual portfolio. Trailing 3-Month Total Return (through 12.31.24)

Growth led the quarter and the year, closing 2024 having returned more than twice the level of less-expensive stocks. In terms of relative size, large-caps trounced mid- and small-cap stocks

The table displays the relative performance of different indexes representing U.S. stocks. Broad market performance is shown in the upper left of each group (3-month and 1-year periods). The remainder of the table displays the performance of various indexes, including large-, mid- and small-cap stocks, Value and Growth stocks, and combinations of each. Indexes that outperformed (underperformed) the broader market are shaded in blue (grey) in depth according to their respective relative performance. Past performance is not indicative of future results. One cannot invest directly in an index. Index performance does not reflect the expenses associated with the management of an actual portfolio.
